

Bathymetric survey of the two different seamounts at the northwestern Pacific Ocean

Kantaro Fujioka[1]; yasutaka imai[2]; Toshio Furuta[1]; Tetsuji Maki[1]; Kiyoshi Hatakeyama[3]; Shinichi Hosoya[4]

[1] JAMSTEC; [2] Global Ocean Development, Inc.; [3] JAMSTEC ; [4] NME

<http://www.godi.co.jp>

Bathymetric survey with gravimeter and three-component magnetometer were carried out for some guyots and seamounts at the western Pacific Ocean. It is clear that the guyots and seamounts lie at the same place but have different evolution history based on the morphology, volume, and age of the seamount estimated by basaltic tephra.