

Human impact on the water quality in the irrigation ponds located in Western-north Kanto prefecture

Minako Fukuda[1]; Kenichi Satake[2]

[1] Geo-environmental Sci.Rissho Univ.; [2] Geo-environmental Sci., Rissho Univ.

Cations and anions in the water of irrigation ponds located in the North Western Kanto prefecture were studied to elucidate the impacts of human activity.

Increase of cation and anion , espacialy increase of nitrate was observed in the two of the four ponds surrounded by newly opened orchard and flower garden.