

Geochemistry of the 2.0 Ga Rove Formation, Canada suggests an early establishment of the modern style elemental cycles

Takeshi Kakegawa [1], Kazuyo Iwakiri [2], Hiroshi Ohmoto [3]

[1] IMPE., Tohoku Univ., [2] IMPE, Tohoku Univ., [3] PSARC, Penn State

<http://www.ganko.tohoku.ac.jp>

Geochemical study of the 2.0 Ga Rove formation was carried out. It is found that the Mo and U concentrations correlated to organic carbon contents. This suggests that the modern style of elemental cycles was already established by this age.