

Across-arc variation in trace element composition of the volcanic rocks of the northern Izu arc

Tsuyoshi Ishikawa [1], Naoya Matsumoto [1]

[1] Dept. Biology & Geosciences, Shizuoka Univ.

Across-arc variation in trace element composition of the northern Izu arc volcanics is examined.

The amount of fluid-mobile elements derived from the subducting slab continuously decreases in the mantle wedge as the slab depth increases.