

Probable Evidence of 871 AD Phreatic/Phreatomagmatic Eruption of Chokai Volcano

Shintaro Hayashi[1], Shunji Mouri[2], Masao Ban[3]

[1] Dep. of Earth Sci., Akita Univ., [2] Earth Sci., Akita Univ, [3] Earth and Environmental Sci., Yamagata Univ.

<http://www.akita-u.ac.jp/~hayashi/hajime.html>

We found gray tephra from Chokai volcano just beneath Towada a tephra which erupted at 910 AD. Judging from the tephra sequence and eruption record in "Sandai Jitsuroku", it is likely to be an eruption product of 871 AD.

We found gray tephra from Chokai volcano just beneath Towada a tephra which erupted at 910 AD. Judging from the tephra sequence and eruption record in "Sandai Jitsuroku", it is likely to be an eruption product of 871 AD.