

J072-001

Room: 101A

Time: May 28 13:50-14:05

Weathering rates in the studies of weathering -Comparison between laboratory and natural systems- : An overview

Masato Fukuoka[1]

[1] Integrated Arts & Sci., Hiroshima Univ.

Weathering rates (dissolution rates) of silicates obtained from laboratory experiments are generally one to four orders of magnitude higher than field weathering rates. Possible explanations for the discrepancy are reviewed.