A numerical experiment about the thermal convection in a closed loop

Kazuo Mimura[1]

[1] Resources and Environment Sci, Tokai Univ

A laboratory experiment has been tried by using a closed loop which has annular shape.

In this experiment, we can see not only chaotic reversal of mail flow along the loop but also stable phenomena, in same experimental parameter.

In order to investigate true behavior of thermal convection in a closed loop, a numerical experiment has been tried.