

Continuous observations of crustal movements in and around the Kinki district

Wataru Morii[1]; Kensuke Onoue[2]; Kajuro Nakamura[3]; Fumio Ohya[4]; Fumiaki Takeuchi[5]; Kunihiko Watanabe[4]; Masahiro Teraishi[6]; Yoshinobu Hoso[7]; Yasuo Wada[4]; Yasumi Sonoda[6]

[1] RCEP, DPRI, Kyoto-Univ.; [2] Research Center for Earthquake Prediction, Kyoto Univ.; [3] DPRI, Kyoto Univ.; [4] DPRI, Kyoto Univ.; [5] RCEP, DPRI, Kyoto Univ.; [6] MCO, RCEP, DPRI, Kyoto Univ.; [7] RCEP, DPRI, Kyoto Univ.

In recent years, extensometer records were used for various purposes. To use extensometer records not only for crustal movement research but also for DC-seismology, we intended to improve accuracy of observations with extensometer. As the first step, we attempted to examine the quality of extensometer records in each observatory. In this presentation, we will report tidal constants and noise levels evaluated for extensometer records in each observatory.