

Development of the Management System on Sharing for an Integrated Geophysical and Geological Information Database

Masahiro Ooi[1]; Hiroyuki Fujiwara[1]

[1] NIED

<http://www.bosai.go.jp/>

We have developed the management system on sharing for an integrated geophysical and geological information database to support researches on earthquake disaster mitigation. The database consists of boring data, geological data, geophysical data, and surface soil structures. We can access the data sets on the underground database using web browser like Internet Explorer.

This research was supported by the special coordination funds for promoting science and technology 'Development of an integrated geophysical and geological information database'.