

U053-001

Room: IC

Time: May 28 9:10-9:30

Present and Future of Space and Planetary Sciences

Sho Sasaki[1]

[1] RISE, NAOJ

Space and planetary sciences involves a wide variety of scientific fields. It may encompass most of earth sciences such as geology, geomorphology, seismology, meteorology. Explorations by spacecrafts together with theoretical, observational, and experimental researches have been playing important roles in the development of space and planetary sciences. Recent progress and future themes of them are discussed in this presentation.