
HSC015-P02

Room: Convention Hall

Time: May 23 17:15-18:45

Regional Disaster Prevention Plan and literacy for local governments

Yoshiaki Orihara^{1*}, Masashi Kamogawa², Toshiyasu Nagao³, Seiya Uyeda⁴

¹Tokai Univ. / Ashikaga City Council, ²Dpt. of Phys., Tokyo Gakugei Univ.,

³EQ Prediction Res. Center, Tokai Univ., ⁴Japan Academy

Local governments in Japan must design Regional Disaster Prevention Plan in accordance with Disaster Measure Basic Law. Since the plan depends on the local situation, there exists a large difference of recognition of disaster prevention, especially earthquake, among the regions. In our investigation, we comparatively study Regional Disaster Prevention Plans with experiences of disaster area. We would like to propose how local administrative organization develops disaster prevention literacy.

Keywords: Regional Disaster Prevention Plan, Literacy, Earthquake